

Vitalis Kizito Olunga

Is Kenyan Citizen:

Has experience in telecommunications industry spanning over 20 year after graduated with a BSc in Electrical Engineering in August 1981 and currently pursuing MBA specializing in strategic management at the same university. Post postgraduate studies in space satellite applications at International Space University. A member of: the Institution of Engineers of Kenya and; the Engineers Registration Board. Currently is the Head of Regulatory & Public Policy Department at Safaricom Limited Kenya and Chairman of GSM Africa. Responsible for management of licensing, regulatory and interconnect policy matters; GSM Association; and ITU matters. Previously worked in various positions at the former KPTC & Telkom Kenya, in international telecommunications services and cellular mobile telephony, also contributed in the development of telecommunications polices during the liberalization process in the industry. As the Chairman GSM Africa has presided over many meetings and delivered presentations on many regional and international conferences, including for Association and ITU.