

Nataša Gospić teaches subjects dealing with telecommunication networks and services in two Universities, Belgrade, Faculty of Transport and Traffic Engineering and Banja Luka, Faculty of Electrical Engineering. She is the member of Telecommunication Regulatory Agency Council and president of NGO "Equal opportunity". She received the B.Sc and M.Sc. degree from the Faculty of Electrical Engineering and Ph.D degree from the Faculty of Transport and Traffic Engineering, University of Belgrade

Mme. Gospić's expertise spans over 30 years of professional experiences in telecommunications from operational engineer up to assistant general director for R&D of CYPTT and the general manager of the mobile operator in Montenegro. Since 1990, she was engaged by International Telecommunication Union (ITU) as the lecturer in more than 35 workshops for CEE, CIS and other development countries. She is the author of three books and more than 80 scientific and expert papers, the editor of the ITU Handbook and several Guidelines. She was vice chairmen of the ITU-D SG 2 and Rapporteur for Q18/2, (Study period 2002-2006) what results is "Guidelines on the smooth transition from existing mobile networks to IMT 2000 for developing countries". She was chairperson of ITU Working Group on Gender Issues (2000-2006) and she was panelist during each of the WSIS phases in Geneva and Tunis.