

Dmitry Tarasov

Central Research Telecommunication Institute (ZNIIS, Russia)

He is currently employed with Central Research Telecommunication Institute (ZNIIS), Moscow.

At this time he is Director of science ZNIIS. His current responsibilities include the research in NGN technologies area and the testing and implementations of these technologies on the public telecommunication networks.

During the last three years his common research was directed on the NGN testing. In this area he worked under the methodologies and approaches of NGN testing.

He is the rapporteur of the Q8/SG11 and editor of Recommendation testing Q.3901 and Q.3903.

He has big experience to take out on the NGN workshop which happened by ITU-T, ITU-D, ATIS, Regional workshop, and others.