International spectrum management (Session 2)

Commitment in global (ITU) and regional (CEPT) frequency management activities -
The case of Switzerland

The territory of Switzerland is small and it is situated centrally in Europe. Furthermore it does not host major industrial corporations active in the field of radiocommunications. Choices made in relation with spectrum management in neighbouring countries, where circumstances may be different, necessarily have an impact on the options available to Swiss spectrum management authorities. For Switzerland international frequency management fora are accordingly of prime importance.
