

Thabani Tonny Khupe
Director: Sub Saharan Africa
Intel Corporate Affairs Group

Thabani Tonny Khupe is responsible for developing and managing corporate strategies and programs in Sub Saharan Africa while enhance Intel's reputation as a technology leader and world class corporate citizen. This includes establishing a long term vision, collaborations and developing and driving strategic plans that comprehensively address trends, issues, and the needs of all stakeholders related to government policies and programs; leading Intel's efforts in driving policy, education, and community agendas that effect positive change in the region.

Prior to Joining Intel, Mr. Khupe worked for five years in a South Africa government public-private enterprise in the ICT sector. In his the various roles, he was tasked with driving education and rural solutions efforts, working with governments, schools and universities and Information and Communication Technology vendors around the world to develop and deploy sustainable innovative connectivity solutions. Mr. Khupe has extensive knowledge in areas of community ICT programs, ICT policy in education, Universal Services Fund management and broadband networks deployments.

WHO IS INTEL

Intel, the world leader in silicon innovation, develops technologies, products and initiatives to continually advance how people work and live. Founded in 1968 to build semiconductor memory products, the company introduced the world's first microprocessor in 1971. Today Intel has over 85,000 employees and a presence in over 110 nations who are driven to create bold advancements in technology that enable positive change and a better, more interesting world.