

ITU Regional Development Forum on NGN and Broadband in Moldova, 4 – 6 May, 2010.

BIOGRAPHY

Nikolay Sokolov received his Ph.D. and D.Sc. degrees in 1982 and 2006, respectively, from St. Petersburg Telecommunication University. In 1974 he joined the Research Centre of Telecommunications in St. Petersburg. Since 1997 he has been part time professor in St. Petersburg Telecommunication University. He led a number of projects ordered by the National Telecommunication Administration. For these works in 1993 he obtained the honorary title "Master of telecommunications".

His research interests are in the field of telecommunication evolution towards NGN (Next Generation Network) and network planning. In 1995 and 2000, Nikolay Sokolov was the Guest Editor of the Feature Topics published in "IEEE Communications Magazine". He is the author of three books. Nikolay Sokolov consults several telecommunication companies, occupied by scientific researches and network planning in the field of telecommunications.