

ITU-T IPv6 Workshop

CV

Geneva, 22-23 June 2005

Prof. Wu Hequan
China Academy of Telecommunications Technology (CATT)

Session: 2.1: NGN service platform Commercial services of carriers
Title of Presentation: China IPv6 Project CNGI

Prof. Wu Hequan has worked for the China Academy of Telecommunications Technology (CATT) of Ministry of Information Industry (MII) since 1964. He was Vice-President and Chief Engineer of CATT in 1997-2003. He has undertaken to study on optical fiber transmission system and broadband network and manage R&D projects for a long time. He was elected the academician of Chinese Academy of Engineering (CAE) in 1999 and Vice-President of CAE since June 2002. He takes charge to study the development strategy on telecom network especially NGN and NCI as well as 3G. He was assigned as Member of China Advisory Committee for State Informatization. He was Vice-Director of an Executive Council of China Institute of Communications and an Adviser of Communication S&T Committee of MII. He currently takes on director of Experts Committee of China's Next Generation Internet (CNGI) project.