Company Profile

Gartner provides the most comprehensive portfolio of communications and IT market research, analysis and consulting, with unequalled breadth and depth of coverage, made possible by our global view of these markets and the synergy among our worldwide teams. This coverage and focus mean that we cover your issues across roles and departments, technologies, industries and geographies. Gartner tracks the continuing evolution and turmoil of the telecom industry, as it relates to specific market segments, including enterprise networking and communications, network services and carrier infrastructure, Internet and remote access, mobile and wireless communications and evolving industry structure and regulation.
