Company Profile

Cognima has a new vision for the way services on mobile phones can enhance the lives of everyday people. It's about connecting people to their personal information, and also allowing that information to be shared with friends and family. Above all we believe that mobile services need to be effortless for all users. Cognima Replicate is a data replication framework that integrates mobile services and makes them much simpler to use. It automatically replicates personal data (such as contacts and photos), and system data (such as phone and service settings) between a subscriber's mobile phone and a network-hosted Cognima Server.
