Company Profile

Trigenix (formerly 3G LAB) is a software company specialising in the development of the surface user interface for mobile phones, which improves the total user experience and increases revenue from data services. Trigenix gives operators excellent control over design and update of the user interface, the capability to rapidly create huge volumes of content and coverage of a wide range of handsets. Trigenix is being rolled out in many countries across Europe; clients include T-Mobile and Telefonica. In February Trigenix won the prestigious Best Wireless Application Developer award at the 2003 GSM Association Awards.
