

Prof. Zhiyong Feng

Dr. Zhiyong Feng is currently serving as professor of Beijing University of Posts and Telecommunications. She is the Director of the Key Laboratory of Universal Wireless Communications Ministry of Education. Her research interests include spectrum monitoring and management, cognitive wireless networks, and wideband wireless communication. She is an expert of the Chinese “Beidou Navigation Satellite System”, and an advisor of NGMN. She is also an editor of international academic magazine KSII Transactions on Internet and Information Systems.

She is the project leader of national “973” Project on Fundamental Theory and Key Technology in Cognitive Wireless Networks. Besides, she has been responsible for or involved in four “863” projects, two Major Programs of National Natural Science Foundation of China and five key state science and technology projects. She also contributed to some international cooperation projects, such as China-Canada cooperation project, China-Australia cooperation project, European Research projects IST-E<sup>2</sup>R II (End-to-end Reconfiguration), IST-E<sup>3</sup> (End-to-End Efficiency). She has published 120 papers. She now own 38 patents, 4 published books and 40 standard proposals accepted by ITU, IEEE and CCSA.