Laurent Chrzanovski, Prof. Univ.

With a PhD in Roman Archaeology, a Postdoctoral Research Degree in History and Sociology and an EU Habilitation to direct PhDs in History and related sciences, Laurent Chrzanovski is Professor at the doctoral School of the University of and Sibiu. He regularly holds postdoctoral courses within several major EU Universities. He is the author/editor of 21 books, of more than a hundred scientific articles and of as many general-public articles. In the frame of cyber security, Laurent Chrzanovski is member of the ITU roster of experts and of the Awareness-raising think tank of the PPP Geneva Critical Infrastructures. His main domains of study are focused on the relationship between the human behaviors and the digital world as well as the assurance of finding the right balance between security and privacy for the e-citizens.

He founded and manages the yearly congress «Central European public-private dialogue platform» a.k.a. «Cybersecurity in Romania» organized in partnership with the ITU (UN-Geneva). In the same spirit, he is founded in 2015 "Cybersecurity Trends", the first cyber security PPP quarterly journal. Originally adressed to the Romanian-speaking audience, 2017 has seen the birth of its Italian, French, English and German versions.