

Dr. Danguole Rutkauskiene is Associate Professor at the Department of Multimedia Engineering at the Faculty of Informatics of the Kaunas University of Technology, Lithuania, where she is also Head of the Training and Projects Department of the E-Learning Technology Centre.

20 years ago she established Young Computer's Users school at KTU. She is Task Force Leader of "School Communities" WG at National Digital Coalition and High-level Advisory Committee member at The European Centre for Women and Technology (ECWT).

As President of the Lithuanian National Association of Distance Education (NADE), she has participated in various projects on distance education on the European level.

An engineer by training, Dr. Rutkauskiene has 20 years of experience in distance education, and participated in more than 80 international projects, wrote 30 books and more than 180 articles. Her current professional interests concern, amongst other things, innovative informal education for youth, especially Girls in ICT.