

Interactive Remote Participation for WTIS-15

ITU is providing interactive remote participation service for WTIS-15. This service will allow experts, who do not have the opportunity to participate physically in the symposium, to contribute and participate in the discussions.

By connecting to the meetings via an Adobe Connect virtual room, remote participants will see a video feed from the meeting room, hear what is being discussed in English, see presentations as they occur, and interact by taking the floor.

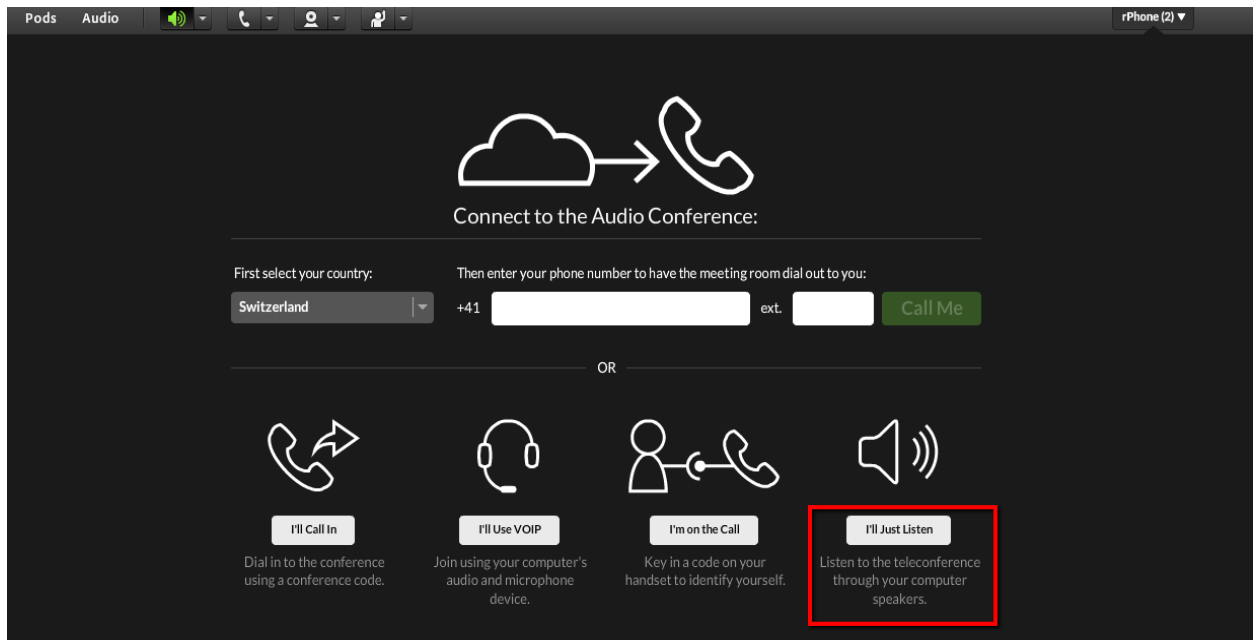

Participants who are interested in making use of the remote participation service are required to register for the meeting as normal and inform the secretariat of the session they are interested in.

Audio Connection

There are three options to join the Teleconference

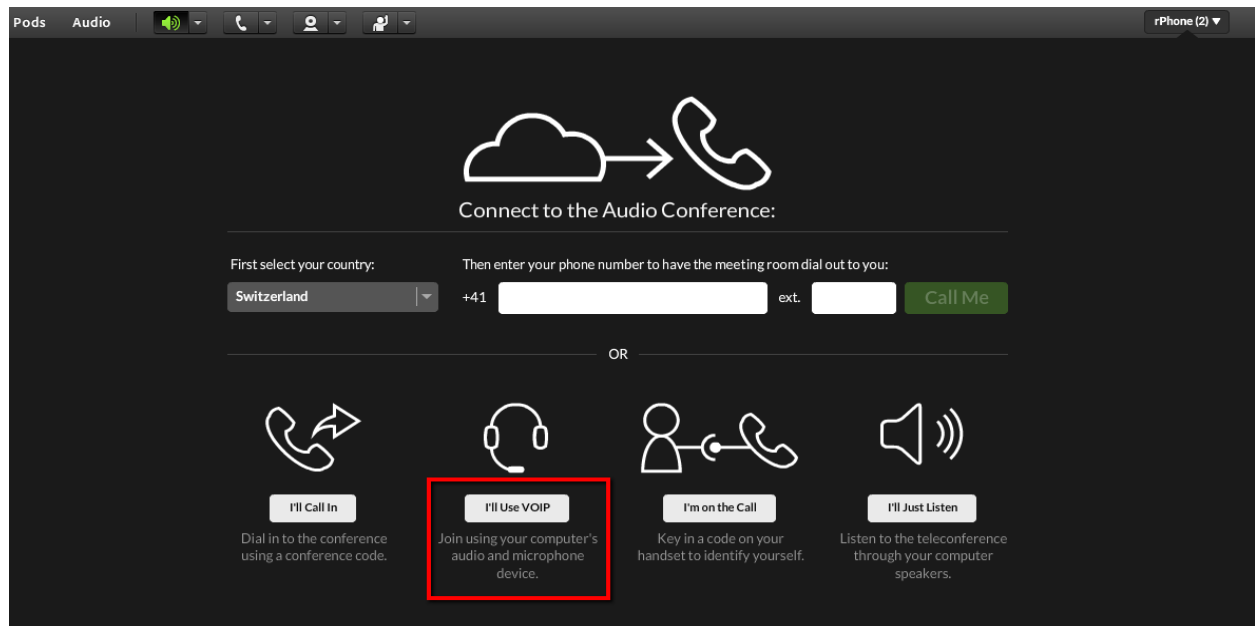

Option 1: Listen through computer speaker

The screenshot shows the Adobe Connect audio connection interface. At the top, there are icons for Pods, Audio, and a user profile. The main heading is "Connect to the Audio Conference:" with a cloud-to-phone icon. Below this, there are two input fields: "First select your country:" with a dropdown menu showing "Switzerland", and "Then enter your phone number to have the meeting room dial out to you:" with a phone number input field and a "Call Me" button. Below the input fields, there is an "OR" separator. There are four options for joining the conference, each with an icon and a button: "I'll Call In" (phone handset icon), "I'll Use VOIP" (headset icon), "I'm on the Call" (person with handset icon), and "I'll Just Listen" (speaker icon). The "I'll Just Listen" option is highlighted with a red box. Below each option is a brief description: "Dial in to the conference using a conference code.", "Join using your computer's audio and microphone device.", "Key in a code on your handset to identify yourself.", and "Listen to the teleconference through your computer speakers."

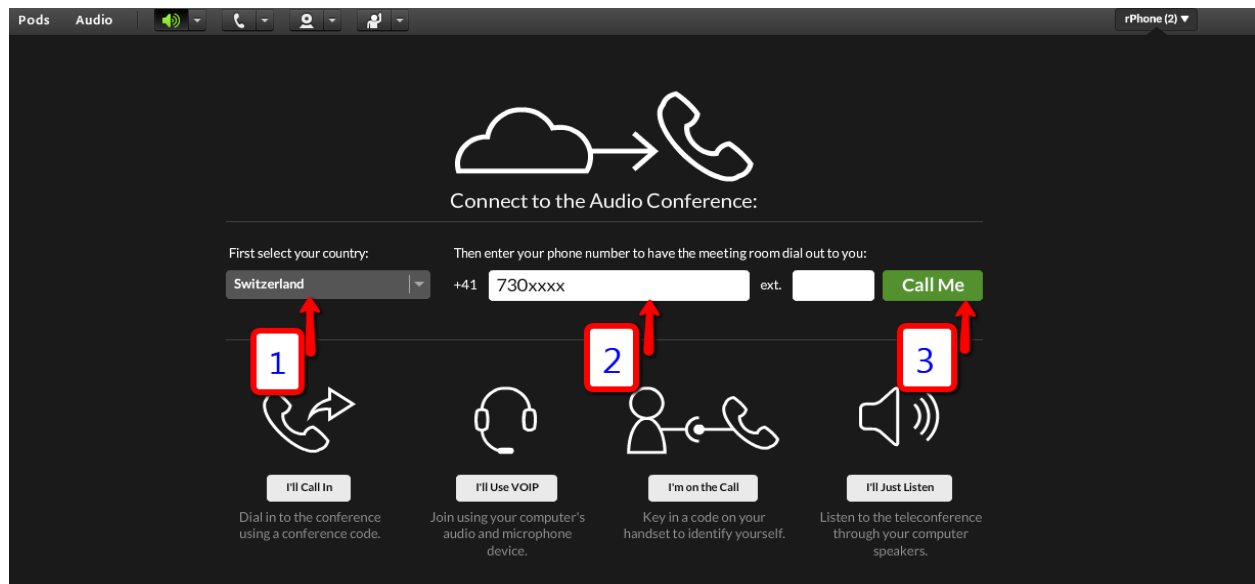

By choosing this option, you can only listen to the conference. You won't be able to speak. A chat box is available if you wish to make some comments.

Option 2: Use VoIP

This option provides the possibility to use a headset to listen and intervene.

Option 3: Dial-In or dial-out to yourself over the phone

Click on Audio Options button (on the top right of the virtual meeting room).

- Select the country
- Type in your number
- Click on “Call Me”

The system will then call you on the specified number.

Requesting the floor.

Click on the “Raise Hand” button on the top of the screen. The meeting host then will give you the floor and you will hear a short audio message on your phone stating that you can speak now.
