

Redi Tlhabi

Journalist and TV Host, Al Jazeera English

Redi Tlhabi is an award winning International broadcaster, author and moderator. She has travelled extensively as a senior journalist presenting for the BBC, Aljazeera, SABC and ENewsAfrica. She is a consummate and highly skilled moderator who brings empathy, simplicity and a firm grasp of the urgent issues that shape our time. With a Master's Degree in International Relations, her areas of interest are human rights, foreign policy, development, gender equality and health. She has moderated High Level Panels at UNGA, World Health Assembly, Climate Conferences and Spring Meetings. Amongst her most consequential panelists, were David Cameron, Graca Machel, Michelle Obama, Melinda Gates, Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala, The Elders, Oprah Winfrey and numerous Heads of State. Redi believes in the power of dialogue and advocacy.

She is active across multiple platforms – podcast, live events, film and radio – telling stories that matter and translating complex issues into relatable content.