

Tumi Makgabo

International broadcaster

More than 2 decades as an international broadcaster, have made Tumi Makgabo a highly sought after moderator at home, in her native South Africa, and around the world. Her experience and skill in news rooms, as well as corporate boardrooms, allows her to effortlessly tackle subjects ranging from sport to mining, development, business, energy, ESG, and everything in-between. Recently, she has served as moderator and/or MC at the Future Minerals Forum, COP gatherings, the Global AI Conference, and the New Global Sports Conference no name but a few. Her client list includes business, media houses, multinational corporations and multi-lateral institutions.

Tumi has carved a niche for herself in both media and business as a media entrepreneur whose interests have grown to include venture capital and real estate. Tumi has been a student of international politics and is currently reading for her LLM in International Business Law.