From the student board at her university, Ms. Nathalie Marilyn Lemmert-Jones learnt that there was an essay competition organized by ITU. The different topics evoked her interest to apply for the participation in ITU-Telecom Youth Forum. In 2003, she took part in this particular activity, from which she got to understand the important role of ICTs playing in the developing countries. What impressed her most was the presentation given by Bill Gates and to listen to other giants and high-level managers in ICTs field.

She hopes more attention and support will be given to help the development of ICTs in the developing countries and everybody will have the possibility to be aware of the progress in this field.
