

ITU-T NEXT GENERATION NETWORKS WORKSHOP IN COLLABORATION WITH IETF

CV

Geneva, 1 – 2 May 2005

GONZALO CAMARILLO
ERICSSON

Session: 6: Evolution
Title of SIP Evolution
Presentation:

Gonzalo Camarillo received M.Sc. degrees in electrical engineering from the Stockholm (Sweden) Royal Institute of Technology and from Universidad Politecnica de Madrid (Spain). He has co-authored, among other standards, the SIP specification (RFC 3261). He currently co-chairs the SIP and HIP working groups in the IETF. He is the author of the books "SIP Demystified" and "The 3G IP Multimedia Subsystem (IMS)". He heads the Advanced Signalling Research Laboratory in Ericsson Finland. His research interests include signalling, multimedia applications, and network security.