

Hassan Thuillard is Counsellor in charge of digital policy and the ITU at the Permanent Mission of Switzerland to the United Nations and other Organisations in Geneva, where he also covers Middle East political affairs. His previous positions at the Swiss Federal Department of Foreign Affairs include the MENA Division, the Swiss Embassy in Beirut and the Peace and Human Rights Division. Before joining the diplomatic service, he worked mainly in teaching and research in international history. His fields of study included international politics in the Middle East and the geopolitics of education in the 20th century.