

Miss Ilaria Bencivenga is a Policy Manager working in the Government and External Affairs team at Opensignal. She liaises with National Regulatory Authorities and other government stakeholders around the world to drive evidence-based regulation and policymaking focused on improving the quality of mobile experiences for consumers and businesses. Her work is at the crossroads of mobile networks and services, public policy and data analytics to enable meaningful connectivity at large.

Ilaria holds a MA in Law from the Università degli Studi di Napoli Federico II, and prior to joining Opensignal, she worked as a Policy Manager at Access Partnership, an ICT consultancy headquartered in London. She ranged between a large number of telecom and digital services and has extensive experience in satellite communications across all regions of the world, specialising in Latin America and Africa.
