

ISAO NAKAJIMA M.D., PH.D., PH.D.

He is a specially appointed professor of Seisa University and a visiting professor at the Dept. of Emergency Medicine and Critical Care, Tokai University School of Medicine.

Doctor of Applied Informatics (Ph.D.), Doctor of Medicine (Ph.D.), and Medical Doctor (M.D.)

He operated the Asia Pacific Medical Information Network via ETS-V satellite 1990-1994, satellite telemedicine specialist of VITASAT (Washington D.C., the first LEO by FCC) 1994-1995. In 2000's, he has been aiming to send huge multimedia data from moving ambulance via communications satellite to assist patient's critical condition. He is a board member of the Pacific Science Congress, a Rapporteur or Co Rapporteur for eHealth of ITU-D SG-2 over 20 years, and a specially appointed researcher at the Yamashima Institute for Ornithology

He is a reviewer of the Fukushima Nuclear Accident Investigation Committee Report invited by the Japanese Diet, is one of the few experts with knowledge of the medical and the communication.