

YASUNORI OWADA

Yasunori Owada received his Ph.D. in engineering from Niigata University in 2007. After serving as a specially appointed assistant professor at Niigata University and as President of Space-Time Engineering Inc., he joined the National Institute of Information and Communications Technology (NICT) in 2010.

He is Research Manager of the Sustainable ICT Systems Laboratory, Resilient ICT Research Center, NICT, leading research on wireless mesh networking, edge computing and emergency telecommunication systems for disaster management, including the field deployment of NerveNet. In 2019 he received the Commendation for Science and Technology by Japan's Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology.