

RODDY MCGLYNN

Policy Manager, International Relations, GSMA

Roddy McGlynn is a Policy Manager in the International Relations team at the GSMA, based in London. Representing over 750 mobile network operators worldwide, he works with governments and international organisations to shape policy environments that enable universal and meaningful connectivity.

Before joining the GSMA, Roddy was a policy adviser in the Multilateral Strategy team at the UK Department for Science, Innovation and Technology, working on the UK's digital policy engagement across the G7, OECD, and United Nations. Prior to that, he was a political adviser for a party in the UK House of Commons, advising Members of Parliament and Select Committee members on foreign and security policy issues.

Roddy holds a Master of Public Policy from the University of Oxford, where he was a Political Leadership Scholar. He also holds an MSc in International Political Economy from Birkbeck, University of London, and a BA in International Relations from the University of St Andrews.
