

STEVEN MOORE

Head of Climate Action, GSMA

Steven Moore is an environmental professional, with 20 years experience advancing climate action and environmental sustainability.

He is responsible for the Climate Action Programme at the GSMA, the mobile industry association. His role is to provide leadership to support and accelerate the industry transition to Net Zero by 2050.

Steven chairs the GSMA Climate Action Taskforce, which has more than 80 mobile operator members globally. He works with the industry to support capacity building, agree consensus on key topics, highlight leadership and best practice, commission new research and thought leadership, and provide strategic direction on climate action.

He has specialist knowledge on climate policy, energy efficiency, renewables, supply chain emissions, circularity, and climate adaptation and resilience.
