

AKANKSHA SHARMA

Akanksha is the Head of ClimateTech and Digital Utilities programmes at the GSMA Foundation. She specialises in the use of information and communications technology for social good and effective climate action. Akanksha has led key research pieces and investments focussed on tech business models linked to energy, health, climate resilience and adaptation as well as climate finance in low- and middle-income countries across Asia and Africa.