

MATT ALLISON

Matt is a Senior Manager for Security Policy and Regulation at Vodafone Group, where he leads a team focused on shaping the external cybersecurity policy landscape. He has worked at the cutting edge of technology public policy for over 14 years in a variety of roles spanning industry, consultancy and NGOs. During this time, he has grappled with some of the key public policy challenges facing the technology sector and helped shape the policy landscape as governments and regulators look to confront and harness the rapid growth of digital services.