Re: Patent Statement of Racal-Datacom for G.991.1 (G.hdsl),
G.dmt and G.lite Recommendations

Dear Dr. Irmer:

In compliance with ITU-T Resolution 1, Section 8, Appendix I.2.2, Racal-Datacom is prepared to grant non-exclusive licenses, on a nondiscriminatory basis and on reasonable terms and conditions, to requesting parties throughout the world under its patent rights for data communication products complying with the above referenced recommendations promulgated by the ITU-T. Patent rights owned by Racal-Datacom, Inc. that may be relevant to the above referenced recommendations include U.S. Pat. No. 4,434,322 and U.S. Pat. No. 4,760,598 directed in part toward self synchronizing data scramblers, with both patents having the inventor Philip J. Ferrell and an effective filing date of August 19, 1965.

Sincerely,

William A. Newton
Chief Patent Counsel
