

Abderrazak HACHANI

Abderrazak HACHANI is an international independent RFID / IoT consultant. He started his RFID activities since 2004 as researcher where he worked on RFID system design and protocols performance evaluation. He participated in several international RFID projects as instructor, system designer, project manager and business developer and serves as advisor for some international RFID organizations. Abderrazak HACHANI is keynote speaker in some technological events and has a special interest in spreading RFID & IoT technologies over the Arab world and the African continent.

Besides to his RFID / IoT consulting activities, He is also lecturer in ESPRIT school of engineers - Tunisia and the head of RFID research group team. He is reviewer in the wireless personal communications journal (WPC) and in some conferences.