

Philip Victor
Managing Director
Welchman Keen

An award-winning cybersecurity advocate with over 27 years in the field of information technology, Philip Victor has served more than two decades in the cybersecurity domain. A recipient of the Senior Information Security Leadership Award from (ISC)<sup>2</sup> for outstanding contribution in enhancing public-private partnerships globally, his role includes, spearheading Cyber Risk for Critical Infrastructure practice and engagement with the International Telecommunication Union (ITU) and governments.

In his previous role working with the United Nations' (UN) specialized agency, the International Telecommunication Union (ITU), Philip was instrumental in assisting governments globally in enhancing their cybersecurity posture through various initiatives and projects including National Cybersecurity Strategy, Child Online Protection, National Computer Emergency Response Team, Capacity Building and International Cooperation.

He is a regular speaker at numerous international conferences, forums and seminars in cybersecurity and has published articles for publications both locally and internationally. He has also been featured and interviewed in international media as a cybersecurity expert and advocate on global issues. Philip sits on Taylor's University Industry Advisory Panel and serves on the Board of Study for the International Business School at University Technology Malaysia.