

Mr. Tomo ŽBONTAR has a Bachelor of Electrical Engineering and a Masters of Engineering Science from the University of Ljubljana, Faculty of Electrical engineering.

He has been working at the AKOS, Slovenian Regulatory authority and its predecessor since 1998 covering areas as telecommunications, spectrum auctions and international issues.

Prior to joining the AKOS he worked as researcher, adviser, department head, director of research and director at the Iskra, the leading Slovenian company for development, production, engineering and support antenna and microwave systems. For two years he joined mobile operator and worked on GSM system deployment.