Whitney received her Ph.D. in Aerospace Engineering from MIT in 2015, while working at OneWeb as a Communications Systems and Regulatory Engineer. Prior to joining the team in February 2014, she spent time at NASA and Inmarsat. Whitney is passionate about space exploration, gender equality, and enabling affordable internet access for everyone – particularly enabling information and communications technology (ICT) in our educational and medical systems.