China Unicom SDN Practice in WAN

Presentation Abstract

The presentation provides an overview of some new thoughts and services about applying SDN on China Unicom's network. First of all, The current state of network, new businesses and requirements will be introduced. Secondly, what kind of services can be provided about applying SDN will be presented. Then the SDN architecture and related technical details will be provided. The last, the presentation will give a brief introduction of how we collaborate with public cloud service providers.