

Title: Networld2020 views on future research

Abstract:

The presentation will provide an overview of the current Strategic Research Agenda to be pursued under the scope of Networld2020, and which will be used as reference orientation to structure communication research in communications in Europe. The talk will also briefly describe the outcomes of previous research under this framework.