Making standards

STANDARDS

"An agreed way of doing something, incorporating the distilled wisdom of people with expertise in their subject matter, who know the needs of the organizations they represent."

New national BSI panel

- Establish quantum community
- Mirror international standards development activities
- Identify UK priority areas for standardization
- Explore original quantum standards topics
- Contribute to European and international standards development

