The International Frequency List (IFL) on CD-ROM

Edition: December 1999

The International Frequency List (IFL) on CD-ROM contains information relating to frequency assignments recorded in the Master International Frequency Register (MIFR) and maintained by the Radiocommunication Bureau (BR). This information was provided to the BR in accordance with the Appendix S4 (Appendix 1) of the Radio Regulations.

This edition of the IFL contains the reference situation of the MIFR, as on 10 December 1999, before the final transfer to the new BR IFIC format. Therefore, it contains particulars of all frequency assignments which were notified to the BR, in the FMS format, prior to 1 October 1999, and whose examination was completed by 10 December 1999. However, in the case of broadcasting service in the VHF/UHF bands, this edition of IFL contains particulars of those frequency assignments which were received by 1 April 1999 and whose examination was completed by 24 August 1999; the subsequent situation in this regard is reflected in the BR IFIC, which represents the only official publication for the broadcasting service in the VHF/UHF bands.

As a historical reference of the MIFR, in its final content in the old format, this publication represents a reference document which may be used for subsequent verification of any apparent errors which may appear in the conversion from the FMS to TerRaSys, as well as for ascertaining that no FMS assignment was lost. Therefore, this edition of the IFL represents a precious tool for the administrations, which ensures complete transparency of the conversion process from FMS to TerRaSys, and which enables administrations to easily trace the dissociation/merging process of their assignments from the FMS format to the TerRaSys format.

This product may be used on a personal computer equipped with a CD-ROM reader. The retrieval software, CD-Answer, is provided on the CD-ROM. The information may be retrieved and extracted using the following elements: frequency, country code of station location, notifying administration, class of station, station name, geographical coordinates or regional code.

The CD-ROM also contains the Preface to the IFL in Microsoft Help format files, and the most recent version of the LFC/WIC on Diskette software package.
