

Ms. Julie Kearney

Ms. Julie Kearney
Head of Regulatory Affairs
Loon LLC
USA

• Forum Session

Session title: Expanding access with new radio technologies
Room: Room 1 - Dynamo
Time: Monday, September 09, 2019, 10:45 AM - 12:00 PM
Role: Panellist

• Forum Session

Session title: Broadband today – and tomorrow: from wireless broadband to gigabit strategies
Room: Room 3 - Plasma
Time: Wednesday, September 11, 2019, 2:00 PM - 3:15 PM
Role: Panellist

• Partner Session

Session title: 5G and Future Networks: creating an enabling regulatory environment through public-private collaboration
Room: Room 2 - Cube
Time: Wednesday, September 11, 2019, 3:45 PM - 5:15 PM
Role: Speaker

Biography

Julie Kearney is Head of Regulatory Affairs for Loon, where she leads the company's U.S. and international regulatory initiatives. Loon is working to bring internet access to unserved and underserved communities around the world via a network of balloons traveling on the edge of space. Loon is a subsidiary of Alphabet.

Prior to joining Loon, Kearney was VP of Regulatory Affairs for the Consumer Technology Association (CTA). She previously served in government affairs at NPR, in MCI's International Affairs group, and as an associate at Haley Bader & Potts (now Garvey Schubert Barer).

Kearney is a recent Past President of the Federal Communications Bar Association (FCBA) and is a past chair of the FCBA Foundation. She served seven terms on the Federal Communications Commission's Consumer Advisory Committee and currently serves on its Broadband Deployment Advisory Committee.

Kearney earned her B.A. from Mount Holyoke College and a J.D. from Catholic University's Columbus School of Law with a certificate from its Law and Technology Institute. She currently serves on the Columbus School of Law's Board of Visitors. A trained singer, Kearney sings with the "kindie" rock band, "Here Comes Trouble." She also has sung with many choruses in the Washington, DC area, most recently with the Choral Arts Society of Washington.