About the Korea IT Times An essential resource for people interested in the rapidly changing Korean intelligent technology industry. The Korea IT Times is the first and only English-language IT journal in Korea that focuses on Korea's increasingly global presence within the international intelligent technology industry and its relationship with the international investment community. The Korea IT Times distributes in 153 countries each month. Its website reports daily events with real-time online news. All articles are indexed through major search engines such as Google News, and content is also syndicated to our partners Digitaltrends.com and Euromoney/ISI (www.securities.com).
