LS telcom is specialised in providing software and consulting solutions for spectrum management and radio network design. Our core business is the provision of solutions addressing the efficient use of radio spectrum and ensuring a most optimal operation of radio communication services. This includes not only the development of spectrum strategies e.g. maximizing the value of the Digital Dividend or developing migration schemes from analogue to digital broadcast, and the optimization of spectrum licensing and allocation processes, but also radio and access network design, optimisation and where required installation support. LS telcom is headquartered in Germany with worldwide subsidiaries and representative offices (www.lstelcom.com)

Leader since 1994 in the field of Internet technology, Fastnet SA brought MailCleaner to the market seven years ago. Promoting both IT security and the fight against unsolicited marketing messages, more commonly called spam, MailCleaner is a full antivirus/antispam software solution developed to protect medium- to large-sized messaging systems. MailCleaner is known worldwide through two distributions: The Open Source edition provides access to the MailCleaner technology for this vast community. The commercial version, which includes permanent updates to the filtering properties, is also well known in the international market, with more than 50 active retailers around the world.
