Eastern European Wireless Communications (EEWC) is read by more than 7,000 communications professionals who buy and specify wireless systems, services and products across Central and Eastern Europe. Each bi-monthly issue carries the latest news and reports, product information, insightful features, technical articles and world news. With its precise editorial focus and quality of presentation, EEWC delivers high-quality editorial that is independent, comprehensive and incisive. Our readers have either a specialist interest or a broad requirement for sourcing/developing products and services such as: cellular communications; satcoms; PMR/PAMR/TETRA; mobile/wireless Internet; broadband wireless access; wireless LANs (Wi-Fi); and microwave.

E-Fulusi Africa (T) Limited is an R&D company, registered in Tanzania focused on mobile centric solutions with the main objective of bridging the gap in payment processes across Africa. E-Fulusi's main goal is to facilitate provision of financial services to the masses, often located in rural areas representing banked, un-banked and under-banked communities. We have been working close with operators to deliver products and support in the VAS area inside and outside Tanzania. E-Fulusi is the leading firm in Tanzania for mobile payment solutions able to offer mobile payment solutions that work across all mobile carriers in the country.
