

Martin Cocker

Martin joined NetSafe as Chief Executive in 2006 after working in the ICT industry for 12 years. NetSafe is an independent, non-profit organisation that promotes safe and responsible use of online technologies for all New Zealanders. They have several partnerships across a range of sectors and groups - working across cyberbullying, cyber security, educational resources, consumer protection and policy advice and development in New Zealand.