Title: Performance and scalability considerations in Hyperchain

Abstract:

Centralized systems make our life convenient and give us better experience. It has high performance and can store huge data to support these features. Blockchain platform still has the potential to impact our daily-life. In this presentation, we will share some ideas on what we think about performance and scale of blockchain and how to make hyperchain serve the real economy better.