

Cost efficient service testing, monitoring and benchmarking

Presentation Abstract

Operators face continuous economic pressures to reduce capital and operational expenses along with the count of human resources associated with network testing, monitoring and benchmarking. Vendors have responded with new, innovative solutions that reduce total cost of ownership (TCO) while increasing the delivered value to the operator by leveraging automation, cloud technologies and machine learning into the next generation of test and measurement solutions.